

Introduction :

1- Hook:

AI has taken an increasingly important role in our lives, and one day we may become fully dependent on it

Nowadays, more than 50 percent of online articles are written with the help of artificial intelligence, so is this one written with AI ?

In today's world, where AI is more and more capable and used by many, various questions, not only ethical but also existential, arise.

2- Presentation of the article

This is the issue raised in this column from the New York Times published in August 2026.

3- Thesis / Main idea

The main idea of the editorial is that let AI write for you is very dangerous.

The text focuses on the problem with letting AI write something for us, which completely destroys our brain and our capacity to think.
